

Chloë McCardel, Honor Swimmer, Australia, 2016

Personal Website

Chloë McCardel is an accomplished open water swimmer from Australia who has completed a total of 44 English Channel crossings (and still swimming), including 2 two-way crossings and one three-way crossing. This broke the most crossing record of Alison Streeter, MBE. In 2010, she won the Manhattan Island Marathon Swim in 7:53, winning in a dramatic 5-second victory over second-place Jaime Caballero of Spain. In 2014 she set the record for the longest ocean swim (current neutral) by crossing the Exuma Sound 124.4 km/77.3 miles.

She was nominated for the 2014 and 2015 World Open Water Swimming Woman of the Year and was featured in the 2016 Marathon Swimmers Federation Calendar.

She won the Marathon Swimmers Federation Solo Swim of the Year award for the most outstanding solo marathon swim of 2015.

The International Swimming Hall of Fame presented Chloë with the Poseidon Award in 2016.

Expanded Biography \(Openwaterpedia\)

Long Swims Database \(Marathon Swimmers Federation\)