Irish Long Distance Swimming Association, Honor Organization

(ILDSA) was founded in 1966 with the aim of promoting open water swimming. Honorary Secretary John Moffett organized four events in its first season. Since the auspicious beginning, the ILDSA has organized over 300 open water events, providing thousands of swimmers an opportunity to compete at the highest levels. The ILDSA established development races that introduce pool swimmers to the outdoor environment. The core of the ILDSA calendar remains races in Belfast Lough, Dublin Bay, Shannon Estuary, Galway Bay, Lough Neagh, Carlingford Lough, and Rathlin Sound. Lough Erne is its major annual championship. These races served as competition for all. For some, these races also helped prepare the swimmers for the English Channel. Indeed, many marathon swimmers test themselves in ILDSA events in Clew Bay, Co. Mayo and the annual Championships at Lough Erne before attempting the English Channel.

The consistent, high standard of the ILDSA events and its contributions have long been internationally recognized: the ILDSA received the International Marathon Swimming Hall of Fame Award of Merit in 1995. In addition to promoting races, the ILDSA has sought to set standards in marathon swimming challenges. It provided relay teams that were the first to swim the North Channel and the length of Lough Neagh. The ILDSA has also provided observers for North Channel attempts and individual swims in all parts of Ireland and a nationwide support network to encourage and recognize those who challenge the waterways of Ireland.
